MEMORANDUM FOR: Executive Director

SUBJECT: Quarterly Management Review Process

There are several activities underway in the Directorate of Intelligence that might well fit into the quarterly management review process even though they are not major "programs."

They include:

- SAFE. Although beginning anew and under DDA management, SAFE probably is a legitimate subject for the DDI to discuss with you. Clearly our focus would be on the user perceptions of the programs and requirements, etc.
- Intelligence Producers Council. There are several related subjects that could be discussed. They include the role and current activities of the IPC, the National Intelligence Topics (NITs), and the relationship between other planning activities and the production process.
- Quality of Analysis. Under this very broad topic I would include such areas as the Analyst Overseas Program, rotations to policy positions, and the product evaluation process. All of these activities are basic to our improving production.
